

Freddie Side Table - Summary

The Freddie Side Table is a sculptural, functional furniture piece designed by Megan Joyce as part of a collaboration with Benchmark. The project celebrates the natural beauty and diversity of solid timber, using a central column of handturned wooden spheres to showcase varying grains, colours, and tones. Available in both single wood and mixed timber versions, the table offers light-to-dark and dark-to-light gradient options that enhance visual contrast and rhythm.

Crafted with a combination of CNC machining and traditional woodworking techniques, Freddie is both precise and expressive. A concealed metal rod adds hidden strength, while a natural oil finish protects the surface and highlights the wood's character. Designed with sustainability in mind, the table uses responsibly sourced hardwoods, allows for disassembly, and incorporates offcuts to reduce waste.

Freddie reflects Megan Joyce's design values: functional craftsmanship, material honesty, and playful, thoughtful form.

It's a small table with a bold presence, built to last, made to be noticed.
